- 5 次の英文は、バスケットボール部に所属する中学生の直人(Naoto)が、祖母とのできごとを振り返って書いたものである。この英文を読んで、(1)～(7)の問いに答えなさい。(16点)

One day in spring, I saw a poster in my classroom. The poster said, "Let's plant sunflowers in the town park together!" It was an event planned by a volunteer group in our town. I didn't think it was interesting, so I <sup>a</sup>(take) my bag and left the classroom.

Next Saturday morning, I went to school to practice basketball. When I was walking by the town park, I saw my grandmother was planting sunflowers with some people in the park. Then, I remembered that poster. I asked her, "Are you in this volunteer group?" She answered, "Yes. We pick up trash in this park every Saturday. But today, we came here to plant sunflowers. I planned this new event." I said to her, "Really? Why did you plan it?" She said, "Many young people in this town want to live in big cities in the future. It's sad to me. If beautiful sunflowers are in this large park, I think some of them will find this town is a wonderful place." She also said, "How about joining us, Naoto? I sent posters to many places, but we have only ten people now." I thought, "This park is large. Planting sunflowers with only ten people is hard. She A, but I have my basketball practice." So, I said to her, "Sorry, I have to go to school," and started B. She looked sad.

When I arrived at my school gym, I thought it was too large. Our team had eight members, but two of them didn't come on that day. Three members and I practiced hard, but two members didn't. They sometimes stopped <sup>b</sup>(run) and sat down during the practice. They said, "We always have to practice the same things because we are a small team. We can't win the games without more teammates." When I listened to them, I felt sad. I thought, "", but I believe that there is a way to become a strong team." I wanted to say something to them, but I didn't.

After the practice, I walked by the town park again. Then, I was surprised. About thirty people were planting sunflowers in the park. I found my grandmother there. I asked her, "Why are there so many people here?" She answered, "I saw many people in the park, so I told them why we were planting sunflowers. Then, many of them joined us." I asked her, "Is that everything you did?" "Yes, I just talked with them," she answered. Her words gave me an answer to my problem. Then, I joined the event and worked with her.

After the event, I told her about my basketball team and said, "Today, I found that talking with other people is necessary to change something. Next week, I'll tell my teammates that I want to make a strong team together. I hope they will understand me." She listened to me and smiled.

では、始めます。

[A]

Kenta : You look tired, Mary. What time did you go to bed yesterday?

Mary : At eleven thirty.

Kenta : Oh, that's late. I always go to bed between ten and eleven.

Mary : I usually go to bed at ten thirty, but I had many things to do yesterday.

質問 What time did Mary go to bed yesterday?

(6秒休止)

[B]

Mary : I have a presentation about Japanese food next week. What should I do?

Kenta : First, you should go to the library. Then, how about visiting a Japanese restaurant to ask some questions? After that, you can cook some Japanese food at your house.

Mary : Thank you, but I went to the library yesterday. So, first, to find a Japanese restaurant, I'll use the Internet in the computer room this afternoon.

Kenta : That's a good idea.

質問 What will Mary do first this afternoon?

(6秒休止)

[C]

Kenta : Did you see my dictionary?

Mary : I saw a dictionary on the table by the window.

Kenta : It's yours. I checked my bag, too, but I couldn't find mine.

Mary : Umm... Look! There is a dictionary under that desk.

Kenta : The desk by my bag?

Mary : No, the desk by the door. Some pencils are on it.

Kenta : Oh, that's mine.

(2秒休止)

質問 3 Why were Kenta's parents surprised when they came home?

(2秒休止)

続いて、話をします。

I live with my father, mother, and sister. My parents and my sister work hard every day.

Last summer, my parents went to Nagano to meet their friends and stayed there for seven days. My sister and I didn't go with them. When my parents stayed in Nagano, we did different things in our house. I cooked breakfast and dinner. My sister washed the dishes. But we cleaned the house together before breakfast. Life without our parents was hard but fun.

When my parents came home, they were surprised because I made a cake for them. They ate the cake and told me it was very good. So, I was happy.

Now I sometimes cook dinner for my family.
